ome interest :

The following, from the Springfield (Massachusetts) Republican, will have No. 230. We have been highly interested of late in the success of a young German family near us in the poultry line, and are per-mitted to draw from their six months' ac-sount book. On the 1st of January, 1863, Lewis Bitter, of West Springfield, had fiftytwo hens, chiefly Black Spanish, and five common ducks, inventoried all told at $22 50. They were kept in a warm octa-gonal poultry house and yard near the junction of the Connecticut and Agawam Rivers. In the month of January they laid three hundred and seven eggs which sold, at 28 cents a dozen, for $7.16. They ate that month three bushels of corn worth $3 15; one bushel of buckwheat worth 80 cents; 50 pounds of meat worth 88 cents; 64 pounds of meat worth $1 28; refuse onions worth 30 cents, and rel peppers worth 12 cents; total $6.54. The profits of that month was 62 cents. Only about 10 of the fowls laid, or the profits would by some and the above complaints. It is bother for the cure of the above complaints. It is bother for the cure of the above complaints. It is bother size of the profits would be per bottom.

By Madazane Forter's Curative Ealeant can be able of first times that yield. In February, whalesale Agents, Claveland, Ohlo. [angle-E2] we they were similarly fed (except that the they were similarly fed (except that the buckwheat and meat were increased and the corn and meal decreased,) at a total cost of $6 21, and they yielded 492 eggs, which sold at about 25 cents a dozen for $10.86. The profit this month was $4.66. In March, they laid 542 dozens eggs which hrought $8.80, besides 25 which were used for setting. They consumed $6.70 worth of feed, and yielded a profit of $2.10. In April, their keeping cost $7 16, and they laid 652 dozen eggs, which brought $16 25 yielding a profit of $8 09. The price of eggs ranged from 22 to 35 cents, according as they were sought for setting. In May, they were charged for feed $8.64, and credited with 61 dozen eggs at $10.20; and credited with of dozen eggs at $10 20; profit $2 16. In June, they ate $7 10

worth, and yielded 42 dozen eggs at $10 48; profit $3 33. Total profit for six months $21 96. The least profit was in January, and the greatest in April.
From the same source we learn that pullets hatched in March of the common state of the common state.

lets hatched in March, often commences laying in September, that fowls commonly decreese in laying properties after their scoond year, and that the eggs of maturest hens are surest to hatch. The estimate for the yield of a good laying hen the first year is 150 eggs, the second year 100 eggs, and the third 50 eggs. Continued laying debilitates a fowl, hence good layers are ofien moor setters, and the worse fatteners Polands and Black Spanish fowls stand highest as layers, game fowls as setters, and Dorkings, smong the English, are pro-minent for the table. For all purposes combined, probably the Brahmas or Dom-iniques are the best. The Brahmas doubt-less are the best of all the Asiatic variet es, and their large size, yellow ekin, juley flesh and winter laying make them very

The Greatest of Eat Hunts.

Every body has heard of the vast system of sewers which underlies the greateity of Paris: Through these subterranean inricacles, according to Victor Hugo in the Miserables, Jean Valjean carried Marius on his back for miles, from the barricade to the banks of the Seine. It seem that during the severe frost, the vast multitudes of rats which abound in Paris, take to the sewers as a refuge from the cold. Latter ly, the weather has been more than usually severe, and the conditions being favorable, it was resolved to have a great rathunt. Accordingly the authorities, ashunt. sisted by a number of men, genins and dogs, entered the sewers at various places and began a grand drive towards a cemmon center. Just as the beaters in an In-dian jungle, with tom-tems, gongs, horns, drums, and frightful yells send all the the animals, from the tiger to the smallest antelope, towards the hunters, the subter-ranean drivers soon had millions of rats massed together, struggling squealing and fighting with extraordinary ferosity. At length they were driven into a large sower near the bridge of Asniers, and forty dogs were let down among them. A battle royal ensued, which issted no less than forty five hours, and at the end of it victory re mained with the dogs. But the latter had paid dearly for their triumph. Four were found in the drain killed cutright, and quite a number were totally blind and helpless when recovered by the genius, who at length ventured to explore the pround depths of the battle. Most of the rats escaped in the moles, but yet no less than 110,000 were found dead. As the finest Parisian kid gloves are said to be made of the skins of these animals, there will be material for many a gross.-

A Mustedon's Tusk-Valuable Acquistrion to Professor Ward's Cabinet. Yesterday morning the United States Express Company received from St. Louis a Mastedon's tunk, brought from ecoideninl regions as a contribution to Professor Ward's cabinet, at the University. It is a genuine fragment of the Mastodon Giganteut, the old king of the North American plains, but utterly extinct before even Gallileo had demonstrated the earth's rotun-dity, or Columbus had dreamed of another continent. The tusk is six inches in diameter at the larger end, and about two and a half inches at the smulter. Its length is about four feet, which is perhaps not more than one-half the original. The abape of the tusk is quite unlike that of the elephant, and the quality of the ivory is very inferior to the latter. We did not learn where it was found. As a companion to the Egyptian mummy (who "con-sented to appear, after her long retire-ment," &a.,) it will prove an excellent at-raction to visitors at the University, as Since writing the above, we are informd that the tusk was exhumed by a party of sais increase in Oregon, about three years since. The owner was offered $1,000 for it, but refused the money, and subsequently brought it to New Orienne, via the Isthmus of Panama, thence to St. Louis, and Ohina, Earthen and Glassware! finally to Rochester. It is a very imper-fect specimen as compared with the full grown task previously in possession of REDUCED PRICES.

Professor Ward.—Rochester Democrat.

Imperium Missionary Movement in the South. The New York Praminer of this week announces that the Secretary of War has given full and formal authority to the American Baptist Home Mission Society to take possession of every abandened Baptist meeting house within the limits of the insurrectionary district, and of every other Baptist church edifice now in the hands of the rebels. The Examiner adds: "This great authorization was obtained through the agency of the Home Mission Secretary and Senator Harris, and the Home Mission Board will need pre-emi-nent wisdom sud energy, besides many men and much means, adequately to meet their new responsibilities. The Baptist population of the secoding States is proba-bly larger than that of any other denomination, and hundreds of abandoned Bap-tist pulpits will be open to loyal Baptist ministers of the North. The government will give them every practicable protec-tion in their new fields of labor, and corresponding facilities for reaching them-things which it can well afford to do, for every minister sent South by the Home Mission Board will be, in fact, an agent for the suppression of slavery and trea-son, and the promotion of freedon and loyalty." This is an important movement, and it is to be hoped that every rebel Baptist (if there are any such), as well as every abandoned Baptist meeting-house, will speedily be restored to loyalty.
